I. BACKGROUND OF LITIGATION AND SETTLEMENT

Plaintiffs respectfully submit this memorandum in support of their Motion for Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(c)(2) and (e). The parties resolved this Action after months of negotiation, exchanges of information, and the mediation expertise of Hon. Daniel Weinstein (Ret.).

Plaintiffs¹ brought this consolidated nationwide class action² pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23, on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated as members of the following class (the “Class”): all persons who purchased an iPhone 4 in the United States between June 24, 2010 and the present. In these consolidated cases, Plaintiffs challenge Defendants’ actions in connection with their marketing, advertising and sale of the Apple iPhone 4 cellular telephone (“iPhone 4”), which Plaintiffs alleged was defective. The cases initially included both Apple and AT&T as defendants. AT&T was subsequently dismissed without prejudice.

Apple designed, manufactured, marketed, advertised, and warranted the iPhone 4 to consumers nationwide. In conjunction with each sale, Apple marketed, advertised and warranted that each iPhone 4 would work, at the very least, for the primary purpose a consumer buys a cellular phone – namely, making and receiving telephone calls. See Master Consolidated Complaint [Dkt. No. 14].

Plaintiffs allege that Apple knew or should have known that the iPhone 4 was defective in design and/or manufacture. More specifically, Plaintiffs allege that the iPhone 4 contains a defect that results in the reduction and/or elimination of cellular and wireless reception and performance

² Eighteen (18) substantially similar cases were consolidated by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation in the Northern District of California pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1407 of into a single action entitled, IN RE APPLE IPHONE 4 PRODUCTS LIABILITY LITIGATION, Master File No. 5:10-md-02188-RMW on November 9, 2010 with two other cases added subsequently. On February 7, 2011, Plaintiffs filed a Master Consolidated Complaint in the Actions.

1 when handling the phone as a reasonable, ordinary person would handle a mobile telephone while 2 making phone calls, browsing the Internet, sending text messages, or utilizing other iPhone 4 3 features, and in the same manner as depicted in numerous Apple advertisements. That is to say, 4 when a person holds their iPhone 4 as a normal person would, reception and performance 5 plummets.

6 On this basis, Plaintiffs alleged 21 causes of action in their Master Consolidated Complaint 7 [Dkt. No. 14], including violations of various common laws, California consumer protection laws, 8 and violation of the consumer protection statutes of six other states (Florida, New York, New 9 Jersey, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, and Texas).

10 Procedural History of the Federal Actions and the Parallel California Actions

11 On June 25, 2010, the first of a number of class action complaints were filed in this Court 12 arising out of the problems associated with the iPhone 4's telephone reception. All cases pending 13 in this Court were 'related over' by order of this Court. On September 30, 2010, the Judicial 14 Panel on MultiDistrict Litigation heard Apple's Motion for MDL consolidation and transfer to the 15 Northern District of California of the then pending 18 similar class actions. On October 8, 2010, 16 the MDL panel issued its orders consolidating all actions and transferring them to this court.
17 January 14, 2011, the Federal Court signed Pretrial Order No. 1, consolidating the federal cases 18 into a single action entitled, IN RE APPLE IPHONE 4 PRODUCTS LIABILITY LITIGATION, 19 Case No. 5:10-md-02188-RMW ("Federal Action"), appointing Plaintiffs' Co-Lead Counsel, and 20 ordering the filing of a Consolidated Amended Complaint to supersede each of the complaints in 21 the Action. In compliance with this Order on February 7, 2011, the federal plaintiffs filed a 22 Master Consolidated Class Action Complaint.

23 Concurrently, four California state actions were also consolidated by the California Judicial 24 Panel and transferred to the Superior Court of Santa Clara. The actions were subsequently 25 assigned to one judge and, by agreement of the parties and court order, William M. Audet of 26 Audet & Partners, LLP was appointed as Liaison counsel for the plaintiffs. The Court order also 27 included a provision that coordinated the state actions with the federal MDL, including any 28

1 mediation efforts.

2 Procedural History of the Mediation

3 On or about February 15, 2011, Plaintiffs and Apple agreed to mediate the issues set forth 4 in the Master Consolidated Complaint before the Honorable Daniel Weinstein (Ret.) and 5 Catherine Yanni, Esq. As a condition of the settlement, Apple was obligated to provide critical 6 information regarding the core issues of the case, including causation and other issues. The 7 parties proceeded with settlement discussions, which included multiple rounds of in-person 8 mediation along with numerous telephonic calls in between such in-person mediation sessions.

9 On June 23, 2011, July 13, 2011 and August 4, 2011, the parties (represented by Co-Lead 10 Counsel and state liaison counsel for the Plaintiffs) and Apple and its counsel, met in-person to 11 mediate the terms of the proposed Settlement. Only after reaching an agreement on all the 12 material terms of the proposed Settlement did the parties engage in an arms-length discussion 13 with the assistance of the mediators to reach an agreement on attorney's fees. On January 24, 14 2012, the parties again met in-person with the mediators to draft and finalize the Settlement 15 Agreement and exhibits. The Settlement Agreement was finalized late that evening and is 16 attached to the Notice as Ex. A.

17 By agreement of the parties, this Court set a preliminary approval date of February 17, 18 2012.

19 Summary of the Proposed Settlement³

20 The parties' Settlement Agreement proposes certification of a Settlement Class consisting 21 of:

22 All United States residents who are or were the original owners of an iPhone 4.
23 The Settlement Class excludes Apple; any entity in which Apple has a controlling 24 interest; Apple's directors, officers, and employees; and Apple's legal representatives, successors, and assigns.

25 The parties estimate that there are well over twenty one (21) million members of the proposed 26

27 ³ All terms are given the same meaning as defined in the Parties' Settlement Agreement, 28 which is attached as Exhibit 1 to the Notice of Motion.

1 Settlement Class.

2 Individual Class Member Benefits

3 The proposed settlement provides, as more fully set forth in the Settlement Agreement 4 (Ex. A to the Notice), substantial benefits to proposed Class Members, including, but not limited 5 to, the following:

6 A. CASH

7 $15 Cash Payment to Eligible Settlement Class Members who file a valid Claim Form.

8 B. FREE BUMPERS

9 free Apple Bumpers as described at <http://support.apple.com/kb/HT4389> for at least eighteen (18) months after Apple discontinues the iPhone 4.

10 Notice

11 The Settlement Agreement request that notice of this proposed settlement be disseminated 12 to proposed Settlement Class Members, at Apple's sole expense, as follows:

13 A. MAILING

14 A copy of the Notice of Pendency and Proposed Settlement of Class Action substantially 15 in the form attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit A (the "Class Notice"), 16 together with the Claim Form (including the Instructions, Claim Form and Release) 17 substantially in the form attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit C, shall be 18 posted and available for download on a settlement website (the "Settlement Web site"), 19 and shall be mailed at no charge to Class Members who call a toll-free number to be 20 established at Apple's expense ("Toll-Free Number"). This information shall remain 21 available on the Settlement Web site until the last day of the Claims Period. All costs and 22 expenses associated with complying with this provision shall be borne exclusively by 23 Apple.

24 B. EMAIL

25 Apple shall e-mail a copy of the Summary Notice of Settlement substantially in the form 26 attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit B ("Summary Notice") to each Class 27 Member for whom Apple has an e-mail address in its warranty registration database. The 28 Summary Notice shall: (i) notify Settlement Class Members about the claims made and benefits available through the Settlement (ii) provide the Settlement Website address (hyperlinked in the e-mailed notice) with a description that the Class Notice and Claim Form are available on the Settlement Web site (iii) provide the Toll-Free Number where Settlement Class Members can call to obtain a Class Notice and Claim Form, and (iv) inform Settlement Class Members of the Apple Bumper offer described in Section II(C) above. All costs and expenses associated with complying with this provision shall be borne exclusively by Apple.

C. PUBLICATION

Apple shall cause a copy of the Summary Notice to be published once in USA Today, a newspaper of national circulation, and once on a different date in Macworld. The Summary Notice shall not be less than 1/4 of a page in size. The Summary Notice shall include the address of the Settlement Website and the Toll-Free Number, again with the costs borne by Apple.

D. INTERNET

A Settlement Web site will be established on the Internet where Class members may view and download the Settlement Notice and Claim Form and obtain answers to Frequently Asked Questions.

Actions Requested of the Court

By their Motion, Plaintiffs request the Court to enter a “Conditional Approval Order” granting preliminary approval of the proposed settlement in the form accompanying this motion, which is substantially in the form attached as Exhibit D to the Settlement Agreement. That order would authorize the tasks necessary to allow the proposed settlement approval process to commence. Those tasks include: (1) conditionally certifying the proposed Settlement Class; (2) preliminarily approving the Settlement Agreement; (3) approving and authorizing dissemination of Class Notice to the proposed Settlement Class Members; (4) establishing a schedule by which Settlement Class Members may exclude themselves from the Settlement Class or object to the proposed settlement, attorneys’ fees, or Plaintiffs’ incentive awards; 5. Appointing Class Counsel and the Class Representatives; and (6) setting a date for a Fairness Hearing.

II. THE COURT SHOULD PRELIMINARILY CERTIFY THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT CLASS

Plaintiffs propose that the Court provisionally certify this action as a class action under Rule 23 for the purpose of settlement. The Court must satisfy itself, at least conditionally, that the requirements of Rule 23 are met, and that the named plaintiffs may properly be appointed to serve as Class Representatives. See Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) § 21.632 (“The judge should make a preliminary determination that the proposed class satisfies the criteria set out in Rule 23(a) and at least one of the subsections of Rule 23(b).”); 4 William B. Rubenstein, Alba Conte & Herbert B. Newberg, NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS § 11.25 (4th ed. 2010).

1 Provisional certification is an appropriate device where an agreement to settle occurs before a 2 class is certified for litigation. See, e.g., Jaffe v. Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., No. C-06-3903
3 THE, 2008 WL 346417, at *2-3 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2008); In re Portal Software, Inc. Sec. Litig., 4 No. C-03-5138 VRW, 2007 WL 1991529, at *2-3 (N.D. Cal. June 30, 2007). Although Apple 5 would, if class certification were contested on the merits, argue otherwise,, the parties have 6 agreed for purposes of settlement that the proposed Settlement Class may be certified under Rule 7 23(b)(3). The Settlement Agreement and the proposed notices provide that Settlement Class 8 Members will have the opportunity to exclude themselves from the settlement class as Rules 9 23(c)(2)(B)(v) and 23(e)(4) require.

10 A. The Numerosity Requirement Is Met

11 Rule 23(a)(1) allows a class action to be maintained if “joinder of all members is 12 impracticable” owing, in primary part, to the large number of people in the proposed class. Fed.
13 R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1); see also Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 1998).
14 Generally, the numerosity requirement is satisfied when the class comprises 40 or more members.
15 Celano v. Marriot Int'l, Inc., 242 F.R.D. 544, 549 (N.D. Cal. 2007). In this case, the parties 16 estimate that the proposed Settlement Class includes well over 21 million persons residing 17 throughout the United States. Size renders joinder impracticable here and, Plaintiffs believe, 18 satisfies the numerosity requirement. See Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1019.

19 B. The Commonality Requirement is Met

20 Rule 23(a)(2) allows a class action to be maintained if “there are questions of law or fact 21 common to the class.” “The existence of shared legal issues with divergent factual predicates is 22 sufficient, as is a common core of salient facts coupled with disparate legal remedies within the 23 class.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1019. Here, all proposed Class Members are Apple iPhone 4 owners.

24 Plaintiffs allege the same legal theories for all proposed Class Members:

25 a) Whether Apple advertised and sold the iPhone 4 by promoting the product’s speed 26 and performance, when in fact, the actual performance was materially different, 27 and worse, than promised;
28 b) Whether the iPhone 4 was defective;
c) Whether Apple was negligent in the design, manufacturing, and distribution of the iPhone 4;

- d) Whether Apple's representations amounted to an express warranty;
- e) Whether Apple breached the warranty;
- f) Whether Apple breached the implied warranty of merchantability;
- g) Whether Apple breached the implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose;
- h) Whether Apple intentionally and/or negligently misrepresented material facts relating to the character and quality of the iPhone 4;
- i) Whether Apple failed to disclose material facts about limitations in the speed and performance characteristics of the iPhone 4 to consumers;
- j) Whether Apple forced Class members to pay unjust charges for the goods and services they were sold by Apple, as well as whether that failure violates statutory and common law prohibitions against such conduct;
- k) Whether Apple violated state consumer protection laws; and
- l) Whether Plaintiffs and the Class members are entitled to relief, and the nature of such relief.

Accordingly, Plaintiffs believe the commonality requirement is satisfied.

C. The Typicality Requirement is Met.

Rule 23(a)(3) requires that “the claims or defenses of the representative parties [must be] ... typical of the claims or defenses of the class.” “The test of typicality is whether other members have the same or similar injury, whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique to the named plaintiffs and whether other class members have been injured by the same conduct.” Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497, 508 (9th Cir. 1992) (internal citations omitted). “[U]nder the rule’s permissive standards, representative claims are ‘typical’ if they are reasonably coextensive with those of absent class members; they need not be substantially identical.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

Here, each proposed Class Representative experienced the Apple iPhone 4 signal attenuation and all share an interest in redressing those claims with all proposed Class Members. Thus, Plaintiffs believe their claims are typical of those of the proposed Settlement Class, and Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3) is met.

D. The Named Plaintiffs and Class Counsel Are Adequate Class Representatives

Finally, Rule 23(a)(4) and Rule 23(g) together require that the named plaintiff and proposed Class Counsel be able to “fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.” “Resolution of two questions determines legal adequacy: (1) do the named plaintiffs and their

1 counsel have any conflicts of interest with other class members and (2) will the named plaintiffs 2 and their counsel prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the class?" Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 3 1020.

4 Here, neither Plaintiffs nor their counsel have any interests antagonistic to the proposed 5 Settlement Class. Furthermore, Plaintiffs and Class Counsel have vigorously prosecuted this 6 action on behalf of the proposed Settlement Class, including filing and service of the lawsuits, 7 self-organizing the various cases and counsel, filing a Master Consolidated Complaint, filing 8 initial disclosures, initiating settlement negotiations with defense counsel, requesting confidential 9 documents and data from Apple, analyzing the documents and data Apple provided, and moving 10 the action forward to resolution. The attorneys who represent the proposed Class Representatives 11 are well-qualified to serve as Class Counsel and indeed have handled similar nationwide high 12 technology class actions to successful resolution in the past. The qualifications and experience of 13 counsel are set forth in the Declarations of Ira P. Rothken, Stuart A. Davidson, Jennifer Sarnelli 14 and Behram V. Parekh, attached to the hereto as Exhibits A-D.

15 E. The Proposed Settlement Class Meets the Requirements of Rule 16 23(b)(3).

17 Once the subsection (a) prerequisites are satisfied, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 18 23(b)(3) provides that a class action can be maintained where the questions of law and fact 19 common to members of the class predominate over any questions affecting only individuals, and 20 the class action mechanism is superior to the other available methods for the fair and efficient 21 adjudication of the controversy. Fed. R. Civ. P 23(b)(3); Pierce v. County of Orange, 526 F.3d 22 1190, 1197 n.5 (9th Cir. 2008). Because settlement is proposed, the Court need not consider 23 manageability. See Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997) (citation omitted) 24 ("[c]onfronted with a request for settlement-only class certification, a district court need not 25 inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems, for the 26 proposal is that there be no trial").

27 The predominance inquiry looks to whether a proposed class is sufficiently cohesive to 28 warrant adjudication by representation. Id. at 623. Common issues predominate where a 1 common nucleus of facts and potential legal remedies dominate the litigation. See Chamberlan v.

2 Ford Motor Co., 402 F.3d 952, 962 (9th Cir. 2005). Here, Plaintiffs' claims arise out of the same 3 set of operative facts and are premised on the same legal theories. For settlement purposes, where 4 the manageability of trying the case need not be considered, the predominance requirement is 5 satisfied.

6 In addition, a class action is superior to any other method available to fairly, adequately, 7 and efficiently resolve the proposed Settlement Class Members' claims. Without a class action, 8 most would find litigation costs prohibitive, and if they did sue in large numbers, multiple 9 individual actions would be an inefficient use of the Court's and parties' resources. Accordingly, 10 Plaintiffs believe a class action is the superior method of adjudicating this controversy.

12 III. THE COURT SHOULD PRELIMINARILY APPROVE THE 13 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AS "FAIR, REASONABLE, AND 14 ADEQUATE" UNDER FED. R. CIV. P. 23(e)(2)

15 Following certification for settlement purposes, Rule 23(e) requires that the Court make a 16 preliminary determination of fairness.

17 Review of a proposed class action settlement generally involves two hearings. First, 18 counsel submits the proposed terms of settlement and the judge makes a preliminary 19 fairness evaluation. In some cases, this initial evaluation can be made on the basis of 20 information already known, supplemented as necessary by briefs, motions or informal presentations by the parties. If the case is presented for both class certification and settlement approval, the certification hearing and preliminary fairness evaluation can usually be combined. The judge must make a preliminary determination on the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement terms and must direct the preparation of notice of the certification, proposed settlement, and date of the final fairness hearing.

21 Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth)§ 21.632; see also 4 NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS 22 § 11.25 (4th ed. 2010).

23 After the preliminary fairness evaluation has been made, the class has been certified for 24 settlement purposes, and notice has been issued, the Court holds a Fairness Hearing to show that 25 the proposed settlement is truly fair, reasonable, and adequate. See Manual for Complex 26 Litigation (Fourth) § 21.633-34; 4 NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS § 11:25 (4th ed. 2010).

27 Preliminary approval requires only that the Court evaluate whether the proposed 28 settlement: (1) was negotiated at arm's-length, and (2) is within the range of possible litigation

1 outcomes such that “probable cause” exists to disseminate notice and begin the formal fairness 2 process. See Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) § 21.632-33. The Ninth Circuit has 3 identified a number of factors used to assess whether a settlement proposal is fundamentally fair, 4 adequate and reasonable: (1) the strength of the plaintiffs’ case and the risk, expense, complexity, 5 and likely duration of further litigation; (2) the amount offered in settlement; (3) the extent of 6 discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings; (4) the experience and views of counsel; 7 (5) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement; and (6) any collusion between 8 the parties. See In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458-60 (9th Cir. 2000). To 9 preliminarily assess the reasonableness of the parties’ proposed settlement, the Court should 10 review both the substance of the deal and the process utilized to arrive at the settlement. See In re
11 Tableware Antitrust Litig., 484 F. Supp. 2d 1078, 1080 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (“preliminary approval 12 ... has both a procedural and substantive requirement”). Each relevant factor supports the 13 conclusion that the proposed settlement is fundamentally fair, adequate and reasonable.

14 A. The Strength Of Plaintiffs’ Case And The Risk, Expense, Complexity, 15 And Likely Duration Of Further Litigation

16 The heart of Plaintiffs’ claim is that Apple’s iPhone 4 contains a defect that results in the 17 reduction and/or elimination of cellular and wireless reception and performance when handling 18 the phone as demonstrated in Apple’s own advertisements or as a reasonable person would handle 19 a mobile telephone while making phone calls, browsing the Internet, sending text messages, or 20 utilizing other iPhone 4 features. While Plaintiffs and Class Counsel believe that their claims are 21 meritorious and qualify for litigation on a class-wide basis, Apple has raised and would continue 22 to raise, challenges to the claims’ legal and factual bases. Although the parties differ as to the 23 likelihood of Plaintiffs ultimately prevailing after judgment and appeal, it is apparent that the 24 proposed Class has some risk with proceeding to litigate.

25 By contrast, the proposed settlement immediately provides the certainty of valuable 26 benefits to the proposed Class Members. Among other benefits, the proposed settlement offers 27 all proposed Class Members $15.00 in cash and the right to receive a free “bumper.” See, supra, 28

2 If this case is not settled, it would be necessary to continue prosecuting the litigation 3 through a trial and, even if successful there, through a potential appeal. There is certainty that 4 any potential benefits to the proposed Class would be delayed for months or years if the case 5 proceeds in litigation.

6 This Settlement Agreement, like all settlements, strikes a balance between the maximum 7 possible recovery that the proposed Class might obtain by pursuing litigation to the very end, and 8 the risk of failing to obtain any recovery should Apple prevail in litigation. In determining 9 whether the terms of this Settlement Agreement are sufficiently fair, adequate and reasonable to 10 justify the dissemination of Class Notice and the scheduling of a Fairness Hearing, the Court need 11 only inquire at this juncture whether the consideration provided to the proposed Settlement falls 12 within the reasonable range of settlement “by considering the likelihood of a plaintiffs’ or defense 13 verdict, the potential recovery, and the chances of obtaining it, discounted to present value.” 14 Rodriguez v. West Publishing Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 965 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing Manual for 15 Complex Litigation (Fourth) § 21.62). The answer to that question is most certainly “yes.”

16 The advantages to the proposed Class Members of approving the proposed settlement and 17 quickly distributing to them the consideration provided exceeds what is likely to occur should this 18 case proceed on a litigation track. For this reason, the strength of Plaintiffs’ case and the risk, 19 expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation suggest that the proposed settlement 20 agreement is fair, reasonable and adequate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2).

21 B. The Amount Offered In Settlement

22 In light of the uncertainties of litigation, the value of the proposed settlement offer is 23 certainly adequate. Apple will provide all proposed eligible Settlement Class Members $15.00 24 cash. Settlement Class Members can also obtain a free “bumper” valued at $29. This is valuable 25 consideration.

26 C. The Extent of Discovery Completed and the Stage of Proceedings

27 The amount of discovery obtained prior to settlement is a factor in determining the 28 fairness of settlement. See Molski v. Gleich, 318 F.3d 937, 953 (9th Cir. 2003), cited in

1 Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 963 (“the extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings”)
2 are factors in considering the fairness of a proposed settlement). Here, as the court’s have 3 repeatedly encouraged, the parties reached settlement relatively early in the litigation. See 4 Franklin v. Kaypro Corp., 884 F.2d 1222, 1225 (9th Cir. 1989) (“In general, the policy of federal 5 courts is to promote settlement before trial. ‘Since it obviously eases crowded court dockets and 6 results in savings to the litigants and the judicial system, settlement should be facilitated at as 7 early a stage of the litigation as possible.’”) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(c), advisory committee 8 note); In re M.D.C. Holdings Sec. Litig., No. CV89-0090 E (M), 1990 WL 454747, at *7 (S.D.
9 Cal. Aug. 30, 1990) (“The judicial system and the public benefit from such prompt resolution of 10 complex, potentially protracted litigation. Early resolution of complex cases is therefore much to 11 be desired. It avoids having the court deal with all the problems a protracted, complex case can 12 create and frees its resources so that other matters can be processed more expeditiously. Early 13 settlements benefit everyone involved in the process and everything that can be done to 14 encourage such settlements—especially in complex class action cases—should be done.”)

15 Nevertheless, Plaintiffs’ counsel did, in fact, obtain detailed confidential information 16 regarding Apple iPhone 4 design and testing, among other things, from a confidential information 17 exchange during settlement negotiations with defense counsel that began in June 2011 and 18 continued for months thereafter. Plaintiffs’ counsel believe, based on their extensive past 19 experience in class action case, that the proposed settlement, rather than continued litigation, is 20 the best option for the proposed Settlement Class.

21 D. The Experience And Views Of Counsel

22 Class Counsels’ collective experience suggests that the Parties’ Settlement is a strong 23 result for the proposed Class and warrants the Court’s approval. Class Counsel’s support for the 24 proposed settlement confers a presumption of correctness. See Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 965 (“This 25 circuit has long deferred to the private consensual decision of the parties.”) (citing Hanlon, 150 26 F.3d at 1027). See also, Linney v. Cellular Alaska P’ship, C-96-3008 DLJ, 1997 WL 450064, *5 27 (N.D. Cal. July 18, 1997) (“The involvement of experienced class action counsel and the fact that 28

1 the settlement agreement was reached in arm's length negotiations, after relevant discovery had 2 taken place create a presumption that the agreement is fair."), aff'd, 151 F.3d 1234 (9th Cir.
3 1998). Duhaime v. John Hancock Mut. Life. Ins. Co., 177 F.R.D. 54, 68 (D. Mass.
4 1997)(settlement is presumed fair where it is the product of arm's-length negotiations); In re 5 Orthopedic Bone Screw Prods. Liab. Litig., 176 F.R.D. 158, 184 (E.D. Pa. 1997) ("Significant 6 weight should be attributed 'to the belief of experienced counsel that the settlement is in the best 7 interest of the class'") (quoting Austin v. Pa. Dep't of Corrections., 876 F. Supp. 1437, 1472 8 (E.D. Pa. 1995).

9 Class Counsel are experienced class action litigators who have successfully litigated 10 complex high tech oriented cases in the past. After weighing the risks and benefits associated 11 with litigating this case, Class Counsel reached the opinion that proposed settlement is in the best 12 interest of the proposed Class. (See Declarations of Ira P. Rothken, Stuart A. Davidson, Jennifer 13 Sarnelli and Behram V. Parekh, attached hereto as Exhibits A-D, respectively.) This opinion is 14 joined by California state Liaison counsel, William M. Audet of Audet & Partners, llp. The Court 15 should afford that determination considerable weight. See id. at 20-21. Therefore, this factor 16 weighs in favor of preliminarily approving the terms of the proposed settlement.

17 E. The Reaction of Proposed Class Members To The Proposed Settlement

18 The reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement is not as meaningful a 19 consideration when a court is determining whether to preliminarily approve settlement because 20 notice has not been issued and class members are, as yet, unaware of the proposed settlement.
21 Class members will receive substantial notice of the proposed settlement if it is preliminarily 22 approved, and will have every opportunity to voice their opinions on the proposed settlement.

23 F. Lack of Collusion Between The Parties

24 The trial court's evaluation of the settlement "must be limited to the extent necessary to 25 reach a reasoned judgment that the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or 26 collusion between, the negotiating parties, and that the settlement, taken as a whole, is fair, 27 reasonable and adequate to all concerned." Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 688 F.2d 28

1 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982). As discussed above, the proposed settlement is the product of extensive 2 arms-length negotiations among well-informed, sophisticated counsel. Attorneys' fees were not 3 discussed until after the substance of the Settlement Agreement and proposed class relief had 4 been agreed upon. Both sides demonstrated by their actions that they are prepared to litigate this 5 case through final judgment, if no acceptable resolution could be reached. In short there can be 6 no question of any collusion. Settlement negotiations were a long drawn out process over many 7 months, utilizing the expertise and services of the Hon. Daniel Weinstein (Ret.) and Catherine 8 Yanni of JAMS. See generally, Satchell v. Fed. Exp. Corp., No. C 03-2659 SI, 2007 WL 9 1114010, at *4 (N.D.Cal. Apr.13, 2007) ("The assistance of an experienced mediator in the 10 settlement process confirms that the settlement is non-collusive.")

11 IV. THE PROPOSED NOTICE IS ADEQUATE AND SHOULD BE 12 APPROVED

13 Rule 23(e)(1) provides that "[t]he court must direct notice in a reasonable manner to all 14 class members who would be bound by the proposal." The Manual for Complex Litigation 15 recommends that "[o]nce the judge is satisfied as to the certifiability of the class and the results of 16 the initial inquiry into the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement, notice of a 17 formal Rule 23(e) fairness hearing is given to the class members. For economy, the notice under 18 Rule 23(c)(2) and the Rule 23(e) notice are sometimes combined." Manual for Complex 19 Litigation (Fourth) § 21.633. Combined notice helps to avoid confusion that separate 20 notifications of certification and settlement may produce. In evaluating a notice program, 21 therefore, the relevant question is "whether the class as a whole had notice adequate to flush out 22 whatever objections might reasonably be raised to the settlement." Torrissi v. Tucson Elec. Power Co., 8 F.3d 1370, 1375 (9th Cir. 1993).

23 Here, the parties propose to disseminate notice by e-mail notice, via U.S. Mail, by 24 publication in two different print journals and publication on the Internet. Copies of the various 25 Notice forms are attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibits A to C. The Electronic 26 Settlement Notice will be sent via electronic mail to all proposed class members in Apple's 27 warranty registration database for whom Apple has an e-mail address. The contents of the 28

1 electronic notices will also be made available via the Internet on a Settlement Web site. The 2 electronic notices will provide recipients with a link to the full notices posted on the Settlement 3 Web site, and a toll-free telephone number for more information or to obtain a mailed copy. The 4 Court should, therefore, approve the proposed Notice and notice plan.⁴

5 V. THE COURT SHOULD ADOPT THE PARTIES' PROPOSED SCHEDULE 6 FOR CONSIDERING FINAL APPROVAL OF THE SETTLEMENT

7 The parties propose to the Court a schedule that is reasonably expeditious, yet gives all 8 interested persons a full opportunity to learn about the proposed Settlement and have their views 9 considered. The parties request that all notices be completed no later than 75 days prior to the 10 Final Approval Hearing. If the Court grants the Order preliminarily approving the proposed 11 Settlement, Plaintiffs are prepared to provide the Court with proposed dates for the completion of 12 both the electronic and publication notices. The parties further request that the opening briefs in 13 support of final approval of the proposed Settlement and in support of Plaintiffs' fee application 14 be filed prior to the objection deadline and that class members objection and exclusions be filed 15 no later than 25 days before the Final Approval Hearing. Finally, Plaintiffs' respectfully request 16 an opportunity to file reply briefs addressing any objections 10 days prior to the Final Approval 17 Hearing. Again, Plaintiffs are prepared to provide this Court specific dates to address these 18 deadlines.

19 VI. CONCLUSION

20 For the reasons discussed above, Plaintiffs request that the Court enter the Conditional 21 Approval Order served herewith, which is substantially in the form attached as Exhibit D to the 22 Settlement Agreement.
